Continuation Sheet (PTOL-303)

Continuation of 2. NOTE: The applicant argues, referring to claim 1, that the Floman reference does not teach, "wherein the second processor is capable of initiating the wireless communication..." however, the Examiner respectfully disagrees with this argument because Floman does teach a second processor capable of initiating a communication independently, see Floman column 4, lines 32-36. Applicant's arguments regarding claims 11 and 18 are geared towards newly added limitation of "an input port to receive data from a user" and "providing...subsystem from a user through an input port", that are presented for the first time after the final rejection. This is not a proper venue to continue the prosecution.
